New York, Oct. 9.—In this lesson I would like to use a bit of great model unions to show that the misallied American labor movement is a racket, political, financial and otherwise.

The union is the International Ladies Garment Workers union of the American Federation of Labor. Its distinguished president is David Dubinsky, who would take a view of the crime of dual unionism and/or disruption by a rank-and-file needman but has taken his outfit into and out of the CIO and back into the A. F. of L. In each instance, his conduct constituted dual unionism and/or disruption in the first degree but was covered by the privilege which permits a union to flout its own moral laws.

It is customary in discussions of the union movement to say that a man is not a thief or a crook if he is not, but it is thought that by failure to say so you intend to intimate that he is. I am not going to say that because it seems to me to be like kissing the flag under compulsion. I don't know anything about Mr. Dubinsky's morality, but this particular and a clean bill of health from me would be worthless.

I do know some things about the union, however.

I know that it makes great boast of its vacation funds collected from the employers. It is a strong, firm union with smart lawyers up to the minute of union law, tax law and interpretations by the bureau and the courts. It is so strong that it dominates the industry.

The employers argued that the money paid into the union's vacation funds, roughly three per cent of the workers' wages, did not constitute wages to these individual employees. The basis for this argument was the provision in agreements with the union that the funds be administered by the union according to its own laws. And the controlling law read that "no individual workers shall have any right, title or interest in or claim against said funds except as may be prescribed by the by-laws or rules or regulations, and so forth. The bosses didn't want to collect withholding tax on this money. That was too complicated.

The by-laws of one of the locals said the fund should be used for the "health," "recreation" and "welfare" of the workers, under management by a committee of five members. These five, however, subject to approval by the executive board, were to decide what expenditures would best promote those indefinite purposes and how the money should be apportioned between the purposes.

The union did not promise that the money would be entirely spent or distributed each year, which meant that the individual simply could not expect to get exactly all of the contribution made in his name. The union was holding some of the money for a reserve and had nothing to forbid it from holding the entire collection in the reserve, indefinitely or forever.

One of the manufacturers said he was now paying, not three per cent but three and one-half per cent and said the workers simply were not getting it back. Incidentally, the internal revenue meanwhile had held that this money constituted wages to the people even though they never saw it. It had no recognized claim to it. It would never get it all and might never get any of it. Any worker who died just before vacation time apparently forfeited his benefits, in which case earned money became unearned. The contract the person himself had made, "right, title or interest in or claim."

The manufacturer who questioned the business said one worker who worked for him had earned about $2,100 and that he had paid in against her name $75. Nevertheless, he said, she got only $15 for her vacation and she and other workers suspected him of cheating them. He said they were receiving about 25 per cent in direct payments, the rest of his payroll tax to the union, being withheld for the "reserve" or spent for the other deductible benefits. He had no right to demand an accounting even to clear his name of unjust suspicion.

Non-union workers' pay was similarly taxed for a fund to which they had no real access. And where union employers found out work to contractors in non-union shops, they were responsible for payments to the union with respect to all individual workers who were total outsiders. A non-member wasn't eligible for any "benefit."

Yet when the union recently threw out picket lines and some of the union trouble and got scuffed up by the police, commissioner and the district attorney all hollered bloody murder. They might have considered the possibility that the workers, American Federation of Labor, were fighting to keep out of this town. Dubinsky controls the so-called Local 62, a parasite on the Democratic party, and thus controls about 200,000 votes through the union.

The union also pays into expense funds for the purchase of out of the wages of Mr. Dubinsky's subjects, as I have reported before, this being no business of any private organization in collecting money in great trucks from thousands of workers for its foreign relief fund.

For example, "in response to the urgent needs" of persons in Europe last subject to certain big gifts indicated by Eleanor Roosevelt, the general executive board, which Dubinsky bosses "recommended" a contribution of a half day's pay and, "after careful consideration" decided on the following: minimum contributions, $50; cutters or operators, $80; and two other categories, $1 and $2 each.

The appearance of violation was given when the workers were "questioned" to contribute in accordance with these schedules. But when we remember that these rates were emphatically described as "minimum" contributions, we naturally wonder what would happen to anyone who tried to give less than this "minimum" or refused to give at all. You don't tell me how little you are going to allow me to give, I tell you how much.

Then it said, "we are looking forward to your prompt and wholehearted support" and, finally, in capital letters, "the members will be able to change his membership record to carry on production" for official receipt and stamp.

You must remember that these conditions are not, not conditions under union laws and regulations. They are not demanded by the union.

So it comes to this that American workers who are not in a position to refuse without penalty, are being arbitrarily taxed by a group of political managers who have the power of government and industry and are ordering to the members of the American Federation of Labor, who are not in a position to refuse without penalty, to contribute to the union's foreign relief fund.

All this before they are allowed a dollar for their own families, as parents and charities.

Has taken a long time for me to get around to understanding all this. When they come to, they aren't going to like it.

Veeck Looks for New Fields to Conquer

Boston, Oct. 11.—(UP)—Looking for new worlds to conquer, Bill Veeck, the restless young man who assembled the greatest crowd ever to see a game of baseball, was today ready to pick up his sportsman's bag and look for new scalps.

Veeck, wealthy heir of a man who made his baseball fortune in Cleveland, simply hasn't much left to accomplish in Cleveland.

He gave the town its first American League pennant winner in 28 years and, though the matter of winning the World Series still was in the lap of the Gods, the Indians do not seem to be in the favor of his Indians to do the job.

So today as the brave little band of Braves and Indians went back to the land of the Pilgrims, the big side town of conversation on the train was that Veeck would leave Cleveland, picking up some down-trodden ball club and rebuilding it in the same manner as he did the Indians, whom he bought in 1916 from Alva Bradley.

It isn't that he doesn't like Cleveland, where right now he and his brilliant young manager could probably be elected as mayor and aldermen respectively even if they ran on the Bull Moose ticket.

Concrete evidence of the fans' appreciation came yesterday when $5,233 of them piled into Cleveland's big horseshoe stadium to set an all-time baseball attendance record.

Now he would like to try a new town.

The best guess is that it would be Chicago where his father, Bill Veeck, ran the Chicago Cubs, and where he has plenty of friends. The White Sox, run by heirs of old Charley Comiskey, are down-trodden a club as exists in the majors and for the right price.

The union was holding some of the money for a reserve and had nothing to forbid it from holding the entire collection in the reserve, indefinitely or forever.

Boston to Pin Hopes on Bill Voeiselle

Boston, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Billy Southworth's aroused Boston Braves gamble on Bill Voeiselle to lead the World Series against Cleveland's Bob Lemon today as the clubs return to Braves field for the sixth game.

Taking new hope from the home-run blasts that routed Bobby Feller in yesterday's 11-5 victory, the Braves continue to defy the old jinx that says teams do not come back after losing three of the first four. After closing the Indians game lead to 3-2, the Braves were so confident of sweeping two more that Southworth even announced his seventh game pitcher—Johnny Sam.

Southworth is taking a big chance with Voeiselle, but he has little choice.

Sam is not ready to come back after pitching Wednesday and Saturday, Warren Spahn and Nels Potter worked yesterday. None of his other hurlers, with the possible exception of Red Barrett, are starters.

Voeiselle finished the regular season with 13-13 record and a job in the bullpen as a relief man.

In his lone series appearance, he pitched up only one single in 3 2-3 innings after replacing Vern Bickford in the fourth inning of Friday's game, won 2-6 by Cleveland behind Gene Bearden.

It may turn out the Braves' strategy will not be too important. Their attack, much zing as a soggy firecracker until they took Feller to shreds in full view of 26,223 people, the largest through ever to see a ball game. If the Braves can hit like that, Voeiselle or Barrett or most any pitcher who can get the ball over will have no trouble.

This tremendous crowd that jammed every inch of available space in the gigantic municipal stadium left its first shock early. Its high hopes of being "up" on the Indians first series triumph since 1920 were punctured by Bob Elliott's three-run homer that dropped in the right field standing room crowd in the first inning.

Dale Mitchell's leadoff homer in the first against the veteran Nelson Potter revived hope. Elliott's second blast in the third inning, this time into the left field seats, sold the idea that the Braves were in for a rough afternoon.

A few early birds started premature celebrations in the fourth after Jim Hegan unloaded a homer with two men on base. The blast that flattened Potter, nobody knew it then, but Southworth's choice of Spahn to replace Potter was the Tribe's death warrant.

Spahn walked only one and allowed but one hit in 5 2-3 innings. The Braves knocked out Feller, Ed Killeman and Russ Christopher before "Satchell" Paige, the ancient Negro with the "hesitation" pitch, stumbled in to stop the riot with six runs in the fifth.

Despite this Boston hitting, long overdue, the Indians still are very much in the driver's seat. Manager Lou Boudreau has Lemon, who won under his belt, poised for today and tomorrow is a seventh game is necessary at Braves field.

Albert Paces Unbeaten Forty-Niners

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Found: one left-handed, magician, weight 160, height 5'10", name Frank C. Albert, Specialty—anything with a football.

Albert spends the full months quarterbacking for the unbeaten San Francisco Forty-Niners of the All-American Football Conference.

Frankie got a chance to practice all his tricks yesterday as the 49ers defeated Baltimore, 56-14. The Colts had never seen better sleight-of-hand.

He tossed the ball 15 times. Thirteen times it went exactly as he had planned, setting a new completion percentage for the best completion percentage. Twice he missed for touchdowns.

Despite their resounding victory over the best of the Eastern division last night, the 49ers didn't take any ground in the West.

Their chief rival, the Cleveland Browns, gained a 30-17 verdict over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Harvey Johnson booted the New York Yankees to a second place in the Eastern division by leading the Buffalo Bills at Buffalo.

In the National League the powerful Chicago Beas knocked off the Los Angeles, 42-21. The Chicago Cardinals got back on the winning trail by whipping Green Bay 17-7.

Philadelphia's Eastern division champions scored their first victory of the year, 45-0, over the New York Giants.

Pittsburgh moved into a tie with Washington for the Eastern division lead by upsetting the Redskins 14-7.

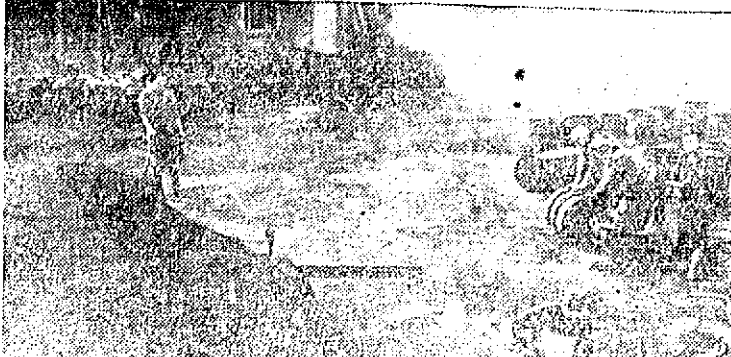

War's Cost

The cost of World War II is estimated at $300,000,000,000, which amounts to about $300 for every man, woman and child on the face of the earth.

They probably will sell out to Veeck, lock, stock and ball park. The fact that the Comiskey family and Leslie M. O'Connor, a wealthy Chicagoan, are in charge of the White Sox, president of the American Association, would make no difference in the ultimate deal Veeck to take over for the Comiskey family.

As for his successor in Cleveland, the hand writing is on the wall there, too. For big Hank Greenberg, the energetic vice president of the Indians, would be ready to take over in minute. Hank, one of the wealthiest men in the business by virtue of wise investments, would buy Veeck out in a hurry. And he, like Veeck, has the sense to want to take a successful venture of running the club.

Fake Coal Is Six Times as Hot

With real coal a scarce item in Berlin, "ersatz" (imitation) coal is being manufactured in the American sector. It's made of sawdust, coal dust and a tarlike substance, and has six times the heating value of the real thing. It's much cheaper, too. These men work between piles of coal dust and sawdust. Something to Crow About

One Chicago neighborhood is blessed with this tame crow, which announces its presence by ringing the door-bell. Besides this accomplishment, the crow begs food and plays with the dogs.

Famous Auto Racer, Ted Horn, Killed in Wreck

De Quola, Ill., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The auto racing world today learned of a fatal national auto racing crash when Ted Horn, 37, was killed in a crash on the track here.

Horn, a well-known driver, was killed in a crash on the track here. He was driving a Ford V8 when it spun out of control and rolled over several times.

Horn was married and had two children. He had been racing for many years and was considered one of the best drivers in the country.

The crash occurred during a practice run for the upcoming race. Horn was driving at high speed when the accident occurred.

The race was postponed until further notice. The coroner's office is conducting an investigation into the cause of the crash.

Horn's death is a great loss to the racing community. He was a talented driver and a popular figure among fans.

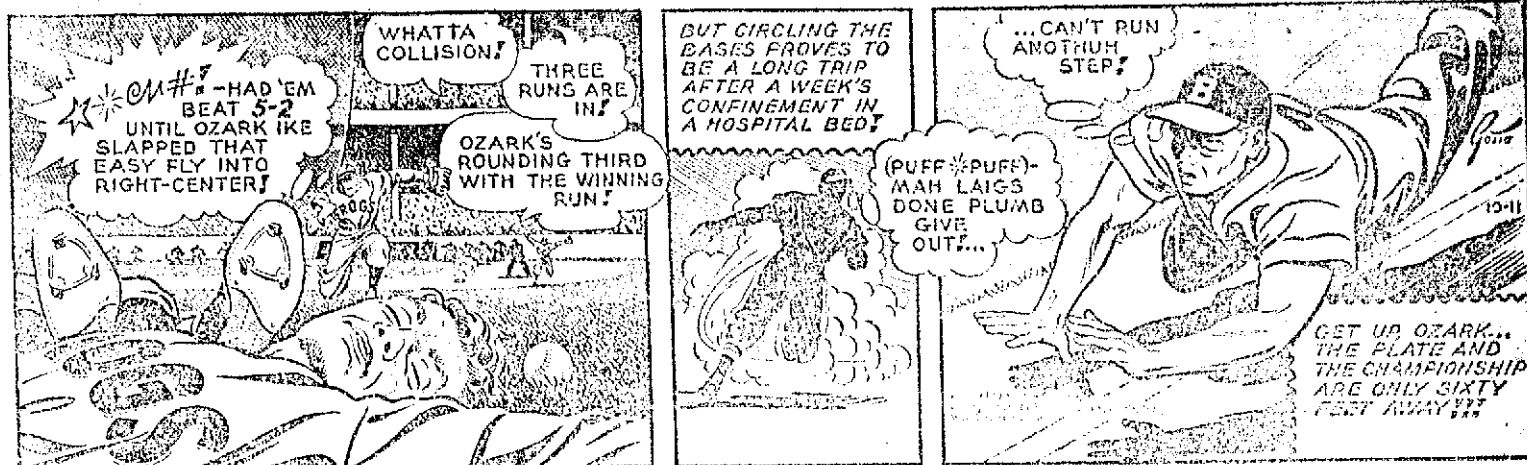

The race track is now closed for several days. The track officials are working to ensure that the race can be held safely.

Britain Hurls More Charges at Russia

London, Oct. 11 — (AP) — Britain accused Russia today of trying to run the Western powers out of Berlin, of keeping thousands of Germans in concentration camps and of attempting to sabotage Europe's economic recovery.

The charges were laid down in a 40,000-word white paper on the Berlin crisis negotiations in Berlin and in Moscow.

In general terms, the statement indicated that issued by the United States Sept. 27. But it was in greater detail, with conclusions which took in issues ranging from control of the mineral-rich Ruhr Valley to Soviet claims for $10,000,000,000 in reparations.

The British paper said: "The Soviet government has no intention of reaching agreement (over Berlin) save on its own terms."

2—"Soviet authorities in Berlin have tolerated attempts by minority groups sympathetic to their aims to overthrow the legal municipal government of the city."

3—"Russia has embarked upon a carefully prepared attempt to compel the Western occupying powers to abandon under duress their rights in Berlin."

4—"Acceptance of Russian terms would mean 'immediate or progressive absorption of Western sectors of Berlin within the Soviet economy and whittling away of the rights and obligations of the Western occupying powers to a point where the whole city of Berlin was under exclusive Soviet domination.'"

The document charged that "Soviet authorities were violating in their zone fundamental personal and political freedoms prescribed by the Potsdam agreement."

"The judiciary is not independent and thousands of people, including children, have been arbitrarily arrested and confined in concentration camps within the Soviet zone or deported to the Soviet Union."

"Skilled workers also have been forcibly removed to the Soviet Union."

In outlining the background of the Berlin dispute, the white paper referred to collapse of the Big Four foreign ministers' council in London a year ago and declared:

"The Soviet government had come to regard that body as a forum for propaganda, rather than a forum for negotiation."

Communists to Oppose DeGaulle

Paris, Oct. 11 — (UP) — Five million French workers will block any move by Gen. Charles DeGaulle and his Rightist Rally of the French people to seize power, Benoit Frachon, general Communist labor chief, warned today.

Frachon spoke to 2,500 union leaders at the annual Congress of the General Workers' confederation (CGT) opened amid government charges that orders for the week-old strike of 350,000 French miners came direct from Moscow.

The heavy-set secretary-general of CGT urged strikers throughout France to continue their struggle for wages, but admitted that no nationwide general strike at the moment would be possible.

Frachon and other Communist leaders ignored charges of Interior Minister Jules Moch, who told a Socialist party meeting last night that the coal strike was ordered by the Cominform to prepare France for a Communist coup similar to that last winter in Czechoslovakia. They insisted the strike was for higher wages only and will end when the government, which operates the nationalized coal mines, grants them.

The spreading railroad strike further crippled the French transportation system, especially in the East, Southeast and West. There was a possibility it might become nationwide while the CGT Congress is meeting.

Moch charged that Andrei Zhdanov, Russian politburo member, ordered the CGT to begin strike operations in September. Zhdanov died several weeks ago, but Moch said a note was sent before his death.

A few days later a double-barreled reply from the (French) Communist party and CGT told the Cominform chiefs that everything was set for the end of September.

The Communists were told to force a general strike in French production during the United Nations session in order to create at Paris the type of situation that existed in Prague in February.

The CGT conference has drawn 2,500 delegates from throughout France. They will meet for five days to hear reports on the past year's activities and prepare plans for the coming year.

Sometime during the meeting a nationwide strike vote among French railway workers is expected to approve a walkout that will paralyze rail traffic.

Seven Units Make Up This New Home

Starting with a foundation, the new Reliance home is built by anchoring seven factory-built units to it. This home, being built in Philadelphia, shows three of the units. The steel-and-aluminum home, selling for $8950, has six rooms. It takes two hours to assemble.

New Helicopter Boasts Bus-Sized 'Capsule'

This is a drawing of the Air Force's new helicopter, the Piasecki HUP-1B, which will be the world's largest. The HUP-1B, with its detachable "capsule" the size of a cross-country bus, will be able to carry the largest load ever carried by a type of aircraft. The ship, equipped to act as a troop and supply carrier, air ambulance, and large-scale rescue craft, is comparable in size to a Douglas C-54 airliner.

told a Socialist party meeting last night that the coal strike was ordered by the Cominform to prepare France for a Communist coup similar to that last winter in Czechoslovakia. They insisted the strike was for higher wages only and will end when the government, which operates the nationalized coal mines, grants them.

The spreading railroad strike further crippled the French transportation system, especially in the East, Southeast and West. There was a possibility it might become nationwide while the CGT Congress is meeting.

Urge Farmers to Produce Legume Seed

Montevideo county farmers are urged to produce and harvest their own winter legume seed to make sure that adequate supplies will be available for planting in the fall of 1949.

Legume seed supplies have been scarce this fall. Many farmers have not been able to get the seed they need to provide nitrogen, or winter cover for their land.

There is a weak link in our chain of production—a balanced supply of legume seed. County Agent Oliver A. Adams declares: "For too many years we have depended on other states for our needs. This year's crop of legume seed is a low one. Unless we can produce our own, we will be in a bad way next year."

A few acres of alfalfa and clover seed production will supply the winter legume seed needs for the entire farm. Too many farmers have been too busy to get into seed production as a cash crop.

For production of hairy vetch seed, Mr. Adams says to sow 10 pounds of vetch to 1 or 1½ bushels of corn per acre. Vetch may be sown with corn, or it may be sown as a winter cover. For seed production, it should be sown in 20 per cent superphosphate or 400 pounds of 0-1-1 fertilizer on soils which are low in phosphorus or potash content. To obtain good pollination and higher seed yield, sow one acre of vetch during the blooming period. Bees will pay good attention to higher seed production. To save the most seed, vetch should be harvested within the top third of the pods is still green.

If farmers wait until the top pods are ripe, the heavier two-thirds will be lost through shattering. Vetch can be combined or cut with other harvesting machinery and pressed.

Mr. Adams says that W. Foster has been successful in growing hairy vetch in the Arkansas Delta. He says that the vetch is a good winter cover and a good seed producer.

Chiropractic Ruling Upheld by High Court

Little Rock, Oct. 11 — (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today again held that applicants for chiropractic licenses must satisfy the board of examiners in basic sciences of their ability in basic science subjects.

The decision affirmed a Pulaski circuit court verdict finding the members of the State Board of Chiropractic Examiners guilty of issuing a license without a showing, and fining them $100 each.

The chiropractic board, Karl Lindquist, Guy Smith and E. H. Green Jr. contended they were authorized to issue the license by reciprocity under Act 485 of 1921. The applicant, Thelma Anderson, they said, was qualified in basic sciences in a state having similar professional requirements.

Agreeing with the lower court that the act "was not willfully or wantonly done," the supreme court held that the "Basic Science Act" superimposed its requirements upon pre-existing laws. It said an examination as to ability in the basic sciences may be waived but must be waived by the basic science board of examiners.

In a 5-2 decision, the court affirmed a Sebastian Circuit Court fine of $50 against the Kansas City Southern Railway Company for violation of Act 67 of 1913, the full switching crew law.

The case involved operation over 28.9 miles of Frisco Railway Company track between Fort Smith, Ark., and Poteau, Okla. The high court held that the operation was not shown to be separate from the railroad's other operations and said the case was similar to one against the railroad which previously was affirmed "by this court and later affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States."

In one opinion, the court affirmed two separate Mississippi Chancery court decrees, giving J. B. Holly, J. M. Roach and others title to right-of-way of an old levee of the Mississippi County Drainage District No. 18.

The 20-mile levee was built in 1915. After the federal government built a new setback levee in 1933, Holly, Roach and others set up fishing camps and boat docks on the old levee.

The lower court ruled, and the high court agreed, that the old levee was not located according to the country court order, and the right-of-way was acquired by prescription rather than by condemnation or grant from the owners, and that such right-of-way was lost when the old levee was abandoned.

The court affirmed the $8,500 judgment of the Deasha circuit court to Mrs. Lillie Baker, against Jessie Stockton, taxi cab owner, for the death of Mrs. Baker's husband.

Baker was fatally injured when a car owned and driven by Stockton's cabs. The court held Mrs. Baker was negligent and not entitled to damages on her own account but that her husband, as a passenger, was not negligent, and that she was entitled to damages for his death.

Candidate Is Murdered in Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 8 — (UP) — William John Granata, 42, Republican candidate for clerk of the Cook County (Chicago) circuit court, was murdered early today by an unknown killer who struck him down with a heavy knife or hatchet.

Granata, former GOP committeeman of one of Chicago's toughest West Side wards, was found dying in a pool of blood in front of the Skyline Club, a loop apartment hotel where he and his wife had lived since their house burned five months ago.

His wife, Violet 29, was asleep in their suite of rooms upstairs at the time he was found in the doorway by Nicholas Salina, 30, club elevator operator who was attracted by a disturbance outside.

Granata's brother, State Rep. Peter C. Granata, said he knew of no reason for the murder.

Police learned that Granata had attended a series of GOP rallies during the evening. A political associate Ernest L. Cape, said he dropped the candidate off at the hotel at 12:10 a.m. Salina found Granata 10 minutes later.

"When I looked out, I saw Mr. Granata on the sidewalk," Salina said. "It looked like his skull had been caved in."

Granata died as police rushed him to Heamorrhoid hospital. A doctor said death was due to a heavy blow at the base of the skull, apparently administered by some heavy instrument (hatchet or a heavy butcher knife or hatchet).

There apparently were no witnesses to the attack and police were searching for the murder instrument.

Dewey Silent on Vinson Incident

Enroute With Dewey to Pittsburgh, Oct. 11 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey barnstormed across Pennsylvania today, holding in reserve a possible public blast at President Truman's handling of the Vinson incident.

The republican presidential nominee let Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.) put into words what Dewey himself apparently would like to have said openly but decided not to do because of his world effect.

Vandenberg declared in a New York City speech last night that Mr. Truman's abandoned plan to send Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow for personal negotiations with Premier Stalin involved in a "narrow escape" from singelanded action that could have crippled United Nations handling of the Berlin crisis.

The attitude among the Republicans—evidently shared by Dewey—was that Mr. Truman had made a desperate blunder that might have had tragic effects around the world.
